LOS ANGELES SOL VS. SKY BLUE FC (NY/NJ)

Tonight's game marks the third meeting between the Los Angeles Sol and Sky Blue FC this season. The Los Angeles Sol defeated Sky Blue 2-0 on April 5 at Sky Blue's sold-out home opener as Marta scored goals two minutes apart. In their second meeting, Marta put away her third goal of the season in the Sol's 1-0 win over Sky Blue at The Home Depot Center.

LAST GAME RECAP

The Los Angeles Sol defeated the Washington Freedom last Sunday at The Home Depot Center, with two goals from French International Camille Abily and a goal from rookie Brittany Bock. The Freedom came into Sunday's match with a five game unbeaten streak, but the Sol quickly turned the tables with a breakaway goal from Abily in the 14th minute. The Freedom equalized in the 57th minute when WPS Player of the Month for May Sonia Bompastor pounced on a loose ball in the box and put it home. But it was all Sol after that, with Abily converting a penalty before Bock added an insurance goal for a 3-1 win.

LOS ANGELES SOL NEWS & NOTES

Sol Sign Julia Schnugg

The Los Angeles Sol signed forward Julia Schnugg as a developmental player, the club announced. Per club and WPS policy, terms of the agreement were not disclosed. The 24-year-old Schnugg, who last played for the California Storm of the Women's Premier Soccer League (WPSL), split her collegiate career between Florida State University and University of California, Berkeley, where she started a combined 61 games and recorded 14 goals and 17 assists for 45 points.

Sol-Ebrate Good Times

The Los Angeles Sol come into tonight's game riding a six-game unbeaten streak. The Sol last dropped a game in a 2-1 decision to the Boston Breakers at Harvard Stadium on Saturday, May 2. Additionally, the Sol has a two-game winning streak against Sky Blue, with a 2-0 win on the road April 5 and a 1-0 victory at The Home Depot Center May 15. In 11 games, the Sol has outscored the opposition 15-4 and their +11 goal differential is the best in WPS.

Abily Snatches Player Of The Week Honors

After scoring three goals and adding an assist over the span of two games last week as the club earned a tie and win, the Los Angeles Sol's Camille Abily was named WPS Player of the Week. Abily, a French International, now leads the first-year league with six goals, one ahead of the Boston Breakers' Kelly Smith and two ahead of her Sol teammate Marta.

Abily is the fifth Sol player to receive Player of the Week honors, joining Aya Miyama (Week 1), Marta (Week 2), Aly Wagner (Week 4) and Shannon Boxx (Week 10).

Week 1: Aya Miyama (Los Angeles Sol)

Week 2: Marta (Los Angeles Sol)

Week 3: Kelly Smith (Boston Breakers)

Week 4: Aly Wagner (Los Angeles Sol)

Week 5: Abby Wambach (Washington Freedom)

Week 6: Sonia Bompastor (Washington Freedom)

Week 7: Lori Chalupny (Saint Louis Athletica)

Week 8: Christine Sinclair (FC Gold Pride)

Week 9: Jillian Loyden (Saint Louis Athletica)

Week 10: Shannon Boxx (Los Angeles Sol)

Week 11: Camille Abily (Los Angeles Sol)

The Sol remains undefeated in the five games in which Abily has scored at least one goal.

Bock Where She Belongs

After stepping into uncharted waters in defense and defensive midfield for the Sol earlier this season, rookie Brittany Bock earned her first start career at forward, her natural position, last Sunday due to an injury to Chinese international Han Duan. The first-year player responded, creating several opportunities for both herself and her teammates; capping it off with a brilliant give-and-go with Marta on the left side of the penalty area that she put past Freedom 'keeper Erin McLeod for her second goal of the campaign.

Sanchez, Zerboni Get Extended Looks From Rogers

Two Los Angeles Sol players got more playing time Sunday against Washington than they had all season to that point. Defender Keri Sanchez made her first start in a Los Angeles uniform (at right back) and went the distance, while midfielder McCall Zerboni replaced an injured Aly Wagner in the 28th minute and was on the field until Katie Larkin replaced her in the 87th.

Iron Sol-Diers

Only two players on the Sol have logged all 990 possible minutes thus far this season - Japanese international midfielder Aya Miyama and U.S. National Team defender Stephanie Cox. Meanwhile, four players have played 900 of 990, goalkeeper Karina LeBlanc, defender Allison Falk, midfielder and captain Shannon Boxx and forward Marta.

The 'Keepers Of The Fortune

Not only is the Sol attack the best in WPS, but the club's defense is the also hands-down the best in the fledgling league, led by goalkeepers Karina LeBlanc and Val Henderson. The veteran and the rookie have combined to allow just four goals in 11 matches, good enough for an amazing 0.36 Goals Against Average and have posted eight shutouts.
